Summary

If selected, you will join a well-respected team responsible for investigating possible violations of securities laws, recommending and litigating Commission action when appropriate, either in a federal court or before an administrative law judge, and negotiating settlements.

Responsibilities

- Developing, litigating and conducting trials of court cases and administrative proceedings that present unique legal, evidentiary and policy challenges and present the opportunity to establish legal precedent, and monitoring decisions that impact the SEC.
- Overseeing the conduct of cases and making decisions regarding tactics and strategy to be employed; representing the SEC throughout the course of the litigation; addressing highly complex legal and factual issues; and efficiently managing SEC cases.
- Providing expert litigation advice, including policy and regulatory recommendations by maintaining and exhibiting knowledge, insight, and understanding in order to respond to inquiries in pending or potential litigation.
- Fostering productive work relationships with federal and state regulators and criminal authorities; and engaging in public outreach and representational opportunities to show case the goals and strategic vision of the Commission.
- Providing agency representation in negotiations and discussion with senior officials and/or lawyers and formulating proposed settlements that often have broad legal implications.

Qualifications

J.D. or LL.B. degree –AND–

SK-16: Applicant must have 4 year(s) of post J.D. work experience as a practicing attorney, 3 year(s) of which includes: (1) producing written legal products such as motions, complaints and other pleadings, and client memoranda, with minimal supervision and assistance; and (2) litigating cases involving alleged violations, interpretation and analysis of federal securities statutes, rules and regulations, or other complex areas of the law; (3) experience in federal or state court litigation, preparing and defending motions; and (4) experience analyzing and arguing points of law involving the Federal Rules of Evidence; and (5) conducting discovery and pre-trial motion practice, including taking and defending depositions and preparing and responding to written discovery.
